Decision Tree for UC Staff Using Third Party Content

GLOSSARY

“Open Education Resources (OERs) are educational materials which are licensed in ways that provide permissions for individuals and institutions to reuse, adapt and modify the materials for their own use. OERs can, and do include full courses, textbooks, streaming videos, exams, software, and any other materials or techniques supporting learning.” - OER Foundation definition.

Publicly Accessible: Freely available on the internet where no payment or UC login is required. Viewers may however be asked to identify themselves or establish an ‘account’ prior to accessing the material.

Third Party Content: Any content created by another who is NOT licenced as an employee or affiliate under the terms of the University of Canberra’s Intellectual Property Policy, nor is subject to a commercial or non-commercial licence held by the University for the use of that content. (For example, licences with publishers).
